Words from the Creator

It was quite difficult to work on the 3rd volume. Perhaps it's my punishment for goofing off too much while working on volume 2. I've been so on the edge, I'm afraid I've been snapping at my friends. (I'll pay you guys back with my body for being so patient with me -3-) Well, I've been thinking about what I should do for a change of pace, but I can't really come up with anything. Once the series ends, I'd like to go to Europe. One of my friends who's gone to Poland to study abroad said if I come over she'll show me around some old construction sites and pretty graveyards. Snicker (Bring it on!) Should be ending around winter so perhaps I should start planning out my trip soon. _ I would like to thank my mom, dad, my "right-handman the blue dragon" Woo-Wun, and my "left-handman the white tiger" Jae-Eun, my drinking buddies and all those who read my books for making my daily life enjoyable. (Though I may feel unworthy of this work, I hope you all enjoy the book TT!) Everyone, thank you very very much.

pretty young men I'm willing to sell my soul to get them. snicker

3 <Bring It On!> has a lot of funny plot twists, where do you get these ideas?
From goofing around. Dear Editor~ I get ideas from goofing around, please give me more time to be lazy.

4 As a manhwa artist, when are you most happy and when are you most sad?
I'm happy when people enjoy my work, and I'm saddest when what I'm doing feels empty and pointless.

5 Do you have any favorite manhwa/manga artists or authors?
I have a lot but my favorite is Umezawa Naoki.

6. Last word to <Bring It On!> fans?
You'll be graced with many blessings.
